Saturday March 20, 2010 we will gather at 5:00 am to witness the sunrise from Kukaniloko in anticipation of the vernal equinox, the first day of spring...this is when the center of the sun crosses the earth's equator...

Should anyone receive a phone call, letter or e-mail from the following person or group regarding a Kukaniloko TCP, please refer them to Tom Lenchanko, waha`olelo O Kukaniloko, at tlenchanko@hawaii.rr.com or (808) 349-9949...Mahalo for your kokua...

My name is Kelley Uyeoka, and my group, Hui 'Imi 'Ike is conducting a Traditional Cultural Properties study of Kukaniloko. My colleagues and I are attempting to weave together a holistic picture of the traditional cultural landscape of Lihu'e, focusing on Kukaniloko, and its traditional and contemporary significance. In contacting you and other people with connections to this wahi pana, we are trying document records of this place in the collective memory of the community. We see this project as an opportunity to piece together a genealogy of Kukaniloko with a variety of sources including Hawaiian and English literature, mo'olelo, mele, oli, maps, archaeology, and ethnographies.
