06.02.2k19 ... Hele Wāwae 'O Makua Valley. Opportunity arose to get a photo of all of the colors of our Kukaniloko T-shirts while we were waiting for the others. Synchronistically, everyone chose a different color today. Pretty cool!

This day was indeed special... Archaeologist Dave Crowley took Kahuia to the Makua Visitor Lanai where there were photos of the families who lived in Makua many years ago. Hope pēlekikena Noelani DeVincent and her son Makoa were especially thrilled as their 'Āina Helenihi hale/family photo was on display. Many years ago their family resided in both Wahiawā and Makua. They brought ho'okupu and left it on the fence fronting their 'āina boundaries that extended to the mountain peak in the background. Eō

*Mahalo nūnui ku'u home
'o kūpunamā 'o Helenihi..*

The morning was filled with visits to many places in Makua. The longest hike was very steep and went deep into the Valley's edge. Kūpuna rested half way up while the rest of the group proceeded to the top of the trail. A beautiful day. Gentle breezes captured your heart. Presence of kūpunamā was evident. Eō

Mahalo for sharing your backyard with HCCW, Aloha

06.09.2k19...Hele Wāwae 'O Palehua.

Mahalo to our hosts for the hike along the ridges of beautiful Palehua. The view corridor of both the westside and central O'ahu were breathtaking. We learned the mo'olelo of our ancients and felt their presence in the lovely fragrances of flowers and greenery. Eō the past is always present...

06.21.2k19 ... Ka`ala Farm Interns visit on this the 2k19 Summer Solstice...

Always a great pleasure to be with you, the ohana. This mana'o is perfect, as the haumana are required to do extensive academic rigor, research, and to take on community planning/implementation issues. We have a good cross section of youth and ages, but leaders will emerge. We are working with other programs across ka pae 'aina doing same. Building the Hawaiian nation, one youth at a time...multiplied. And, mahalo, mahalo again for an unforgettable experience. Our ohana will carry the lessons and passion in their lives...

Forward, in building our beloved communities of "aloha made visible", in thought and action.
Eric Enos, Ka`ala Farm

Mahalo for visiting with us this beautiful Summer Sostice afternoon. We do appreciate your staying with us longer following your Piko Listening Journey to kūkākūkā further with kūka'awe Uncle Tom. You invested your time to enhance your understanding mo'olelo of place. In the old language, Āina means family. One with the land and sea; one with the past, present and that which is yet to come. Mahalo nūnui kākou for your kind gifts and aloha nō. Eō

06.21.2k19...Mele Murals Summer program attendees visit. (40) Haumāna ages 9 – 12 years old came to a Piko Listening Journey. Each week of their summer program is designed with different themes. They range from aloha kūpuna, aloha nā ali'i, and aloha la'au. Their huaka'i journey helps them to experience relationship to place. Here they learn visual arts, traditional and cultural Hawaiian practices so they can intertwine them together in their art perception. Learning the sacredness of place, mo'olelo of pōhaku and ali'i of Kūkaniloko was the perfect huaka'i today.

Mahalo for your special visit with us today Mele Murals haumāna. Your disciplined and attentive spirits were much appreciated. Hopefully, your experience has inspired you to include in your artwork our ancestors and their kuleana to prepare for the next seven generations. Including our traditional comprehension in your art will forever remind us: the past is always present...

FLASHBACK...

Kahu Peter Lonoae'a is visiting on-site with friends...June 29, 2001
This site visit was eight years before Kahu became a Hawaiian Civic Club of Wahiawā lālā 'ōiwi. Pictured in the background is the original "Kūkaniloko Birthstones State Monument" sign.

Kūka'awe Tom Lenchanko, along with the Board of Directors of the Hawaiian Civic Club of Wahiawā are currently working on restoring all signage on-site. These signs are important to visitors who come to Kūkaniloko when there is no one to talk to them. The new signage will include directions to kukaniloko.org where they will be able to obtain more information. The "Contact Us" format assists in answering questions and arranging Piko Listening Journeys if they should desire to do so. On-site signs are the "Silent Kumu" that provide perpetual education about our wahi kapu - sacred place...
