"...without the ancestors we would not be here..."

Native Koa Trees onsite at Kūkaniloko... Early May, on the 9th last month Wao Kele O Puna's Irene Sprecher of Forest Solutions and Nick Dudley of Hawaii Agricultural Research Center came for a short visit with OHA's Taylor Asao to inspect the Native trees growing on the ten acres under the care of HCCW. There was a special interest in the large Koa trees on the southwest boundary. These are the oldest Koa.

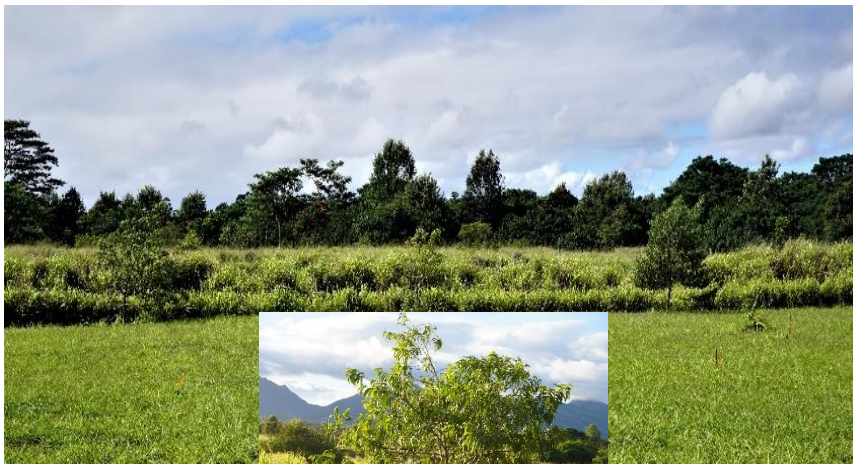

Nick shares some observations about this koa tree .

Two were planted on the first visit of the young doctors of JABSOM in 2013. Eleven more were planted on the fourth visit of the doctors of JABSOM. These Koa are 5 - 9 years old. They soar at heights surpassing 25 feet. After examination, Nick said "They are happy and doing well, standing tall on their own." Right next to them in the photo on the left, a smaller Koa tree did not survive but it strongly keeps its space until it will be physically removed later.

A member of the Hawaiian Civic Club of Wahiawā since 1962, she was the oldest living member of HCCW. Her brother Bernard Rodrigues ua hala recently on November 17, 2k20 also at the age of 94. Kupuna Roselani returned to attending our monthly HCCW meetings every month in 2k15. The COVID Pandemic set upon us and cancelled our April 1, 2k20 meeting and all those to follow for nineteen months. On November 10, 2k21, our monthly meeting date and HCCW Founding Date were a match. HCCW decided to hold our first HCCW Hybrid meeting and celebrate our 61st Anniversary. There were 15 of us in person and 10 who attended virtually. Kupuna Hall was there in person... Eō

6.16.2k22 ... Ukoa Pond. Mililani, of Kamehameha Schools, landowners, escorted Kūka'awe Tom Lenchanko, Alí'i, Iokepa, and Pelekikena Noelani DeVincent to a visit to the peaceful and serene Ukoa Pond on the North Shore of O'ahu, just past Hale'iwa. This site check was arranged to assess the landscape, waterways and whatever overgrowth that needs to be taken care of. A kūkākūkā session took place to discuss the possibility of scheduling a future site clean-up day as today's visit was just a brief one. Mahalo nō...
